PREFACE

It will be recalled that the first two volumes of this work (published in 1911), covered, (1) the general history of Dukes County and (2) annals of the six towns of the Vineyard, leaving the more important family genealogies to conclude the whole in a third volume. For a number of reasons, including a long illness of the publisher resulting in his retirement, the Great War following and the subsequent high cost of printing, the third and last volume has remained in manuscript ready for publication for the past ten years. The appearance of it now is due to the generous interest of about sixty men and women of the Vineyard (with some from other parts of the States) who have underwritten the expenses of printing and issue, trusting to the widely expressed desire from all sections of the country for the completion of the author's work.

This present volume contains, as far as the author has been able to gather the material, the complete genealogies of every family resident on Martha's Vineyard from 1641 through the beginning of the 19th century, transient and permanent residents inclusive. It has been found necessary on account of the limitation of space and human endeavor to make an arbitrary bound to the records of these families, and the year 1800 has been set as a line of demarcation. This brings into the field of consideration any family which had issue in that year, whether it was the first born or the last in that particular family. In some cases it will be noted that with a marriage occurring in 1799 a family of a dozen or more beginning in 1800 will be brought forward as late as 1825 or thereabouts, and thus the living of this generation can readily find the records of their fathers and grandparents. Nothing further would be practical, as an attempt to carry on the succeeding generations of 1800-1900 for forty families would require several volumes. As it is, the sixth and seventh, and frequently the eighth generations from the first settlers are here recorded, and when it is remembered that the genealogy of one family usually occupies one volume, sometimes two, the investigator who turns to these pages for help will readily understand that a stop had to be made somewhere. Those who contemplate a compilation of subsequent generations, or desire statistics of their immediate ancestors can turn to the published vital records of Edgartown, Tisbury and Chilmark and obtain therefrom ancestral data for either of these purposes.

Not only the families indigenous to the Vineyard from its first settlement are recorded herein, but the transient residents, are given equal consideration, for their stay here makes some hiatus elsewhere that the family genealogist will be glad to discover. In the course of the author's long preparation of the work he has been aware that the island has kept its attractive hold on many a stray person or family given up as "lost" elsewhere. The manuscript records of the Vineyard, until the very recent publication of its three volumes of vital statistics (Ch. 1904, Edg. 1906, Tis. 1910), were almost a "sealed book" to the rest of the historical world, and even these do not by any means tell all that is expected of them.

One would, for instance, expect to find in these vital records at least fifty per cent of the births happening in these towns, a ratio which will be admitted is a small percentage of such events actually occurring. The practical result, however, is even worse than this, as, for example, the Luce family. The author's manuscript notes contain the records of about one thousand males and females bearing this name who lived on the Vineyard between 1650 and 1800. The town and church records of the three settlements combined record less than four hundred births or baptisms under the name of Luce—less than fifty per cent of the known births. This proportion is not especially marked with this family, but has been noted in the case of every family on the island, in greater or less degree.

From this the reader may infer the difficulties which have been met in constructing the genealogies from sources so incomplete, and the added difficulty of placing in proper relation members of a family, living contemporaneously, bearing the common baptismal names of John, William, Sarah and Mary.

Source of Information

The basis of all the following genealogies has naturally been the town record of births, marriages and deaths, but these are lamentably deficient, especially Chilmark. At one time it was the equal in population of the other two original townships and yet its record as printed makes but a meagre volume of 96 pages. Edgartown's volume, covering a period of thirty years before any other settlements began, has 276 pages, and Tisbury 244 pages. Family records before 1700 in many of the town books are an almost negligible quantity and it is safe to say that no genealogy in the book could be constructed if our main reliance were on our public records of births, deaths and marriages. It has been a constant source of wonder to the author why some of the most prominent families of the island in the first century of its existence as a settled community are not of record in any public depository. In this respect the town records do not compare favorably with other settlements elsewhere. There is no public record, for instance, of the early generations of the family of Governor Mayhew or Simon Athearn, Nicholas Butler, Nicholas Norton and a dozen other of the prominent pioneers of that day.

The church records are the next most valuable source of information, giving as they do (or should) the baptisms of children, marriages and deaths, limited to the membership of the several churches. Here, however, we are deprived of this invaluable help for the earliest church records of each town are either lost or destroyed. Edgartown has nothing prior to 1720; Tisbury, less fortunate, began in 1760, and Chilmark lags behind with the first existing record starting in 1788.

What has become of these first books dating from 1642 (Edgartown), 1670 (Tisbury), and about 1690 (Chilmark) is difficult of explanation. In the early days the ministers kept the records and regarded the books as their personal record and property and when they terminated connections with the parish took the volumes with them occasionally. That this happened in the case of Tisbury is known from a fragment of record made in 1760 when a committee of the parish waited on their late pastor, Rev. Nathaniel Hancock, to demand the church books which he was retaining in his possession. He refused to deliver them and as far as known never did so. Fortunately the late Richard L. Pease found somewhere the records of the church beginning with the pastorate of Rev. George Damon (1760) and made what appears to be a complete copy of them which is now in the possession of the author and it has proven to be an invaluable mine of information on Tisbury families not elsewhere found. The original of this has also disappeared since 1850, when the Pease copy was made, and but for his interest and labor we should never have found most of what his pen has saved. Various traditions have been told the author as to the last custodian of these volumes who held them as private property and finally committed them to the waste heap or to the flames.

The probate records constitute the third important source of family history, giving as they do the heirs of testators by name and relationship, in cases where wills were made, and of those entitled to participation as such when the descendants were intestate, but this source is also limited. There are not a dozen wills of record prior to 1700, and we know that does not represent the number of deaths of heads of families at that time. Neither do the probate records yield information on any of the considerable number of persons whose estate never was settled for one reason or another, and the author has noted the entire lack of any such reference to some of the most prominent persons known to have died here with real property in their possession. The deeds hold nearly an equal standing in point of value to the genealogist, and they are practically complete from 1647 to the present time. They furnish many items of kinship not found elsewhere, and serve to distinguish individuals of the same name living contemporaneously, by the personal description of occupation, residence, relationship as "Senior", "Junior", "Tertia" (or Third) as well as furnishing the names of wives.

The court records, common pleas and quarter sessions, are fairly full from the year 1650 in various books, including the town records of Edgartown, and Vol. 1, Deeds, and frequently give unexpected valuable facts not elsewhere to be found. The "files" or original papers belonging to the thousands of suits, where we should expect to find depositions, documents relating to the case, accounts, etc. as at other county depositaries, are entirely wanting at our clerk's office before 1800 with some unimportant exceptions. Nobody seems to know what became of these valuable papers.

After these sources had been exhausted, the compiler had recourse to a number of miscellaneous public archives in the Commonwealth and elsewhere, to fill in gaps in families or confirm doubtful inferences. Family Bibles have yielded up a lot of unrecorded births and deaths and in some instances family records in manuscript have been preserved for two hundred years. The Athearn record, children of Simon, the first, is an instance of this latter class of information.

But by far the most valuable material which came into the possession of the compiler were the genealogical manuscripts of the late Richard L. Pease, who began collecting information about the island families seventy five years ago. Born in 1814, he knew and conversed with old people all over the island, people born before the Revolution, and the results of his "interviews" were jotted down at the time on all sorts and varieties of scraps of paper until thousands of notes accumulated which he sorted and arranged in tabular form and constructed therefrom skeleton genealogies of nearly every family on the island, even including the Indians. In this work he had the aid of an earlier antiquarian, Rev. Frederic Baylies, whose odd and crude methods of delineating a family tree are found among the Pease Mss. Mr. Baylies had the advantage of about twenty-five years priority in quizzing the ancient men and women and he obtained much knowledge "by word of mouth" which has been found by test of documentary evidence now available to be singularly trustworthy. The author regards the Baylies Notes as of the highest value. As stated in the preface of the first volume, nearly all these Pease Mss. were acquired by Prof. Alex. Graham Bell of Washington, D. C., who employed Mr. Pease to prepare them for publication. With the aid of the late Mrs. Annie C. Pratt, and his daughter, the late Harriet Marshall Pease, a great mass of material was collected to bring each family down to date, but the death of Mr. Pease, the magnitude of the task, and the length of time expended in the preliminary canvassing, had the gradual effect of shelving the project. These papers were generously placed in my hands through the agency of Mrs. Pratt, herself a descendant of a number of Vineyard lines, and it has been a veritable mine of facts to which the author has had recourse in all doubtful cases.

The National Census Records have been of much help in the adjustment of families, although the names of "heads" only were given until 1850. The records of the Pension Office have been of special value in the matter of personal information about soldiers of the Revolutionary War.

English Ancestry

During two extended visits to England in 1922-1924, the author made special researches in various public and parochial records to fix the ancestral homes of the settlers of the Vineyard. In cases where he was successful the results appear in the appropriate places in each family record and for the first time appear in print. This part of the work is composed of entirely new material hitherto unknown.

Family Genealogies

Source of Immigration

The first settlers of Edgartown came from a limited area, principally from the towns tributary to Boston, Watertown, Dorchester, Salem, Weymouth while a few were drafted from the several Cape settlements. The new town of Tisbury, after 1690, drew a goodly number from Sandwich and Plymouth, Hampton, N. H., and Salisbury. At the beginning of the 18th century there was a gradual influx of new inhabitants from the adjoining island of Nantucket, the towns on the shores of Buzzards Bay, and always a contribution from some of the contiguous villages on Cape Cod. About 1770 our first Portuguese resident (Jose Diaz or Joseph Dias) came to Tisbury and he was followed by several others before 1800. In the last century there has been a steady increment from the Western Islands. The only alien element in our population, excepting an occasional "stray".

Family Peculiarities

It is an interesting fact that certain families who have lived on the Vineyard for two hundred years or more have been identified almost exclusively with the town where they originally settled. Considering the limited area of the island this is quite remarkable, but it is a fact that many families are scarcely ever known to have lived outside of the original habitation of their immigrant ancestor.

Edgartown has: Arey, Ripley, Pease, Stewart, Vincent.

Tisbury has: Luce, Athearn, Look, Merry, West, Manter.

Chilmark has: Tilton, Hillman, Skiff.

The Mayhews are found in plenty in Chilmark and Edgartown, but almost never in Tisbury.

Certain families of the Vineyard are almost unknown elsewhere in New England, as Mayhew, Athearn, Luce, Hillman, Manter and it is safe to say that any person bearing those names anywhere in 1800 were descendants of our Vineyard blood. Exception is to be made, of course, to "strays" who wandered to America from England for transient residence.

Like all other people of their time with current custom predominating, our island families preserved certain names in families. There has been a peculiar tendency to perpetuate family names as baptismal names, particularly names of the first settlers who left no male issue, as Bayes, Sarson, (corrupted to Sisson) Whitten, Eddy. There has been a Bayes Norton in the latter family from 1698 to the present day.

Emigration to the Mainland

While there was a constant ebb and flow of people between Nantucket and the Cape and the Island, there was no exodus of distinct character until the last quarter of the 18th century. The newer settlements in northwestern Massachusetts were being opened up and land was freely granted there to desirable persons for the asking or it could be cheaply bought. This region between the outbreak of the Revolution and 1790 attracted a large number of Vineyard people to its fertile valleys and wooded hills. Whether this migration was due to surplusage of population here, the infertility of the soil, or the constant annoyance of vessels of war marauding the island, is not clear. But one thing is of traditional memory as a factor in the causation of the exodus. For several generations almost every family on the Vineyard had paid its toll of death to the remorseless ocean. Mothers, wives and sisters would see their "men folks" go forth in the frail craft of that period to scour the seven seas for the leviathan of the ocean, never to return alive to their island home. In time this tribute of human life to the perils of the deep became a constant spectre haunting their visions by day and their dreams by night. They came to wish for the time to come spoken of in the promises of the Revelations—"and there shall be no more sea". The romance and mystery of the vast waters held no more charm for them and their one desire was to go to some remote inland country far from its sound and sight where they would have no more of the awful reminders of those tragic and often unknown deaths tallied up at the season's close as "lost at sea". In this spirit doubtless many went to the hill country of western Massachusetts, and for a like reason, certainly, a large quota of Vineyard families sought the productive valley of the Kennebec in Maine about 1790 and became the pioneers of Farmington, Industry and New Vineyard. A considerable number went to eastern New York about the same time probably, attracted thither by their kinsmen, who had pushed on there after a brief earlier sojourn in the hill towns of Franklin County, Massachusetts.

About the time of the second British war another contingent left the Vineyard and went into the new "Western Reserve" called Ohio and aided in the development of that splendid state.

Resident Families 250 Years Old

About a score of families who were settled here prior to 1700 are still represented by name in the male lines at this time, viz:—Allen, Butler, Cottle, Cleveland, Chase, Coffin, Daggett, Dunham, Hillman, Lambert, Look, Luce, Mayhew, Manter, Marchant, Merry, Norton, Pease, Smith, Tilton, Vincent, and West. Those printed in italics in this list have been here for 250 years or more, seven in all, and these seven are the most prolific of all the Vineyard families.

In this same period nearly two score of families have disappeared entirely from the Vineyard in the male line, either through failure of issue or removal. Of the former class may be named Bayes, Browning, Bland, Eddy, Gee, Harlock, Presbury and Sarson; of the latter class the names of Cathcart, Covell, Cartwright, Foster, Gray, Homer, Hunt, Hatch, Jenkins, Jones, Kelley, Martin, Milliken, Skiff, Trapp, Wass, Weeks and Wheldon have no male representation on the island today.

As above stated some families have maintained a numerical supremacy in the past two and a half centuries, and the following table will prove of interest in showing comparative results, viz:—

Name	1790 Census	1800 Census	1810 Census	1850 Census
Allen	13	19	21	11
Athearn	9	9	14	16
Butler	23	15	11	7
Chase	7	3	5	5
Cleveland	6	8	9	16
Coffin	13	14	13	19
Cottle	10	8	12	8
Daggett	15	14	13	21
Davis	8	3	5	12
Dunham	16	20	16	15
Fisher	14	13	20	17
Hillman	13	9	9	12
Look	10	10	10	10
Luce	41	45	49	66
Manter	7	6	9	12
Merry	8	7	7	5
Mayhew	26	27	25	38
Norton	39	33	24	50
Pease	27	22	26	31
Tilton	16	14	18	21
Vincent	9	14	16	25

It will be noted that the Luce family was the leading factor in populating the island fifty years ago with Norton second, followed by Smith, Mayhew, Pease and Vincent in the order named. The Allen, Butler, Chase, Cottle and Merry families show a loss, the Butlers especially, with a drop from 23 to 7 households in the period of sixty years, 1790 to 1850. The others about hold their place without much loss or gain.

Plan of Registration

The genealogies are printed on what is known as the "Register" plan, whereby each child is designated by a number in sequence from the progenitor and the generation shown by a small numeral above the line. As the compiler of these genealogies had to construct his work on an elastic plan to make room, every now and than, for an unrecorded child in a family, he adopted a slight modification of the "Register" plan and treated each family as to enumeration in the same way that buildings are numbered in a city block. Each family is considered as a unit of ten persons and the first child of each family is given the number of 10, 20, 30, 40, and so on, instead of a number following that of the last child of a previous family. In this way as in a city block, numbers may be missing because there are not enough children to take up the count of ten. Sometimes it overruns, in which case the next family begins with the next decimal.

In order to avoid unnecessary statements and save space, the marriages of individuals are identified by their family number. Thus for example, James Adams m. Sarah Smith, (36), means that she is number 36 in the Smith family and that the searcher must turn to that family and look for number 36 to find her parentage. This saves the labor and space of stating a thousand times that the wife was "daughter of John and Mary (Jones) Johnson of Tisbury", for instance. In other respects the plan is simple enough to need no further explanation. Brevity has been aimed at for the same reason, to save space, and words in frequent use have been abbreviated but, most of these are self-evident contractions and should cause no doubt in reading the text.

In those cases where there was no record of a birth and the relative position of a child in the family problematical the author has given an assumed date, thus, Charles, (1787), to indicate that the exact date is not known and that 1787 is the probable year of birth. It would have been quite as easy to have left the space blank and permitted each of the readers to have a guess for himself, but the author has taken the position that because of his intimate knowledge of all of the circumstances connected with each family he can make a closer guess than one not familiar with the problem. Each family has been studied carefully from all angles to determine the possibilities where exact dates are wanting, such as precedence found in wills, signatures to deeds, order in baptism, the childbearing period in case of females, as well as all other circumstantial evidence, and these assumptions of dates by the author have at least the foundation of studied effort to approximate the supposed and the actual but unknown dates. As the dates are italicised in brackets they are sufficiently contraindicated to prevent confusion with the regular type.

L'envoi and Acknowledgements

The labor of many years and of many hands is now finished and before the genealogical public. If anyone expects that it is free of human errors it would be well for him to close the book right here and look elsewhere for perfection. In the following pages several million figures are printed and it is not in a spirit of humility that the author concedes the probability of mistakes—rather a recognition of the fallibility of mortals in dealing with such a multiplicity of dates.

In addition to the acknowledgments made for help given in the two previous volumes, the author cannot refrain from repeating his indebtedness to Mr. William J. Rotch of West Tisbury for continued aid, and to Mr. William B. McGroarty of Baltimore, Md., Mr. Marshall Shepard of Edgartown and Mrs. Emma Mayhew Whiting of West Tisbury for long and loyally supporting the final work of publication of this volume.

ALLEN FAMILY

1. Samuel[1] Allen, the first of this family, is not known to have been related to other emigrants of this name in New England. It is stated that he came from Bridgewater, Co. Somerset (Carey Genealogy). He was born about 1600 and settled in Braintree, Mass. where he lived until his death Aug. 5th, 1669. He married (1) Anne————who died in Sept. 1641; (2) Mrs. Margaret (————) Lamb, widow of Edward.

2. Samuel,[2] b. 1632; m. Sarah Partridge.
3. Mary, b. 1634; m. Nathaniel Greenwood 1655.
4. James, b. 1636.
5. Sarah, b. 1639; m. Josiah Standish.
6. Abigail, b. (1645); m. John Carey 7 Dec. 1670.

By second wife:

7. Joseph, b. 1650; m. (1) Rebecca Leader; (2) Mrs. Lydia ( ) Holbrook.

4. James[2] Allen, (Samuel[1]), b. 1636; res. Braintree and Sandwich prior to his removal to the Vineyard. A full biographical sketch may be read in Vol. II Annals of West Tisbury, pp. 25–28. He married Elizabeth Perkins according to family tradition, although it cannot be definitely determined whether it is worthy of acceptance. If that were her name there is no place for her in any of the known Perkins families of New England unless she was an unrecorded daughter of Isaac Perkins of Hampton, N. H. and thus a sister of Jacob Perkins and of Mary Perkins, the wife of Isaac Chase, both of whom came to Martha's Vineyard. This seems the only reasonable working hypothesis which the author has been able to develop. She was born in 1644 and died 7 Aug. 1722 in the 79th year of her age. Her will 11 May 1716 was proved 2 Oct. 1722.

8. Amy,[3] b. 14 Aug. 1663; m. Joseph Hatch (23), 7 Dec. 1683.

ATHEARN FAMILY

The most promising clew to the English origin of this family is found in the existence of an Athorn (Athourne, Atherne) family as early as 1602 in the parish of Boughton-under-Blean, co. Kent, which is situated ten miles north of Ashford, from whence came our Nicholas Butler. The author has already stated his belief that Simon Athearn came to New England as servant in the employ of Bulter, and the proximity of the two parishes seems to indicate that locality as the region where the Athearn family originated. With the exception of a family of the same name (Athorne) residing in Stratfield—Mortimer, co. Hants, at the same period, this is the only occurrence of the name known to the author after an extended research among the manuscript and printed vital records of England.

THE CLAGHORN FAMILY

The derivation of this family name is traced to Glegerne, a Celtic name given to a camp on the border line of Scotland by the Romans A.D. 80 during the invasion of England. From this the name became Cleggerne, Clegherne, Cleghorn, and lastly, Claghorn. The barony of Cleghorne existed in Scotland in the 12th century and a chapel of Clegerne was connected with Dryburgh Abbey. The lands connected with the barony were granted in 1441 to Sir Alan Lockhart of Lanarkshire in whose family the title remains to the present day.

Claghorn, as a family name, appears in Scottish records as early as 1350 in Edinburgh, Cramond, Lothian and Corstorphine. In the latter named parish there lived a James Cleghorn who d. 5 June 1588, leaving among others two sons James and Henry, and the latter was father of three sons and one daughter, viz: Thomas, David, James and Isobel. James, the youngest son, with his sister Isobel, was the heir of his older brother, David, in 1647, and is believed to be the James Claghorn who was brought to New England in 1650 as a prisoner of war during the Scottish Rebellion, following the Battle of Dunbar. Corstorphine, the home of the Claghorns, was occupied for a year by the troops of Cromwell and many of its families driven into exile. In the fall of 1651 about 150 of the Scotch prisoners were sent to New England for indenture as "slaves or servants" in the ship "Unity". They were treated as human chattels and classed with Indians and negroes in the social estimate of the Puritans. They were bound out to the wealthy classes as household or agricultural helpers.

1. James[1] Claghorn, like all the Scotch prisoners sent to New England, was farmed out and undoubtedly, his time was sold to Bernard Lombart (Lumbert) of Barnstable sometime bef. 1654. He retaliated on his master by taking his dau. Abiah Lombard to wife 6 Jan. 1653–4. He removed into Yarmouth 1662 and there lived during the remainder of his life. He was rated at Yarmouth in 1675 for the expenses of King Philip's War. His wife committed suicide by hanging in Oct. 1677, having been for sometime mentally afflicted. His will 11 Oct. 1683 was pro. 25 Oct. following and he d. bet. those dates.

THE COOKE FAMILY

7. Temple Philip[1] Cooke, the ancestor of a distinguished family of E., has so far eluded all effort to discover his antecedents prior to his appearance in our little island settlement. According to family "tradition" he came direct from England and this seems probable as he is not known to be connected with any Cooke family in New England. He was b. about 1704 and is said to have lived in Newport, R. I. before coming to Martha's Vineyard. If this be so, he was a minor, for his first appearance in E. was as witness to a deed in 1723 when 19 years of age if "tradition" is reliable. Although in one document he is designated as a "sea-faring man" the graceful cipher autograph which he always used indicates a scholar and gentleman. Besides teaching school in E. he was the attorney and conveyancer of the community and the land records 1723–1740 give abundant evidence of his industry during that period. That he belonged to some well-established family in England and perhaps emigrated to the New England in a spirit of adventure or for other personal reasons suggests itself at once. His double Christian name, very unusual at that period, in New England but common in old England, lends color to this surmise. He m. JANE DAGGETT (54) 9 May 1728, who was b. 22 Dec. 1711. He d. 1742, according to the same "tradition" but his end is as mysterious as his beginning, for there is no public record of it nor any settlement of his estate. His last appearance was 17 July 1740 as a witness to a deed. The widow m. (2) Dr. Daniel Crittenden bef. 9 Nov. 1746, and (3) Stephen Folger after 1751. She long survived all three, dying 12 Sept. 1801, aged 90 years.

DAGGETT FAMILY

It would not be necessary to occupy much space in the presentation of the genealogy of the Vineyard Daggetts in view of the extensive family history already in print (Boston, 1894) except for the fact that the volume referred to omits much that should appear, especially in the Joseph[2] Daggett line and contains numerous errors that ought to be corrected in the other branches. It is, therefore, deemed best to incorporate it in its entirety rather than to make piecemeal corrections and additions which would be confusing to the reader.

1. JOHN[1] DAGGETT, the head of this family, has received sufficient notice to cover the details of his life (Vol. II, Annals of E., pp. 63–66) and nothing has since been discovered to determine his ancestry or the maiden name of his wife. The author repeats his suggestion that it was Brotherton* as this name was perpetuated in three widely separated branches of Daggett descendants.

* Wills of persons of this name which have come to the author's notice are as follows: Thomas Brotherton, mariner, Deptford, Kent 1621 (P. C. C. Dale 92); Eleanor Brotherton, widow, Lewes, Sussex 1636· John Brotherton skinner, London, 8 Mch. 1640 (Commissary, Wills, London XXIX. 382); Alice Brotherton, widow, New Sarum, Wiltshire 8 July 1641 (P. C. C. Evelyn 100). Curiously enough one Robert Daggett was appointed Rector of Gillingham Co., Dorset in 1334 by Thomas de Brotherton.

THE JOSEPH[2] DAGGETT (6) BRANCH

Joseph[2] Daggett, the head of this branch, was b. in 1647–8 (not 1634 as stated in the Daggett Genealogy) as appears from a statement of his age in a deposition.* In it we learn that he had for "many years scrupled the usual way of swearing" and declared his statement "to be the truth spoken in the presence of God". From this we may perhaps infer he had embraced the Quaker beliefs, at least in part. Beyond the facts which appear in the sketch of his life (Vol. II, Annals of W.T., pp. 44–46), little is known of him. His marriage to Alice Sessetom, dau. of the Sachem of Sanchacantacket, as already detailed, is one of the romances of our history and serves to mark him as one who ignored the conventionalities of society in choosing an Indian princess for his bride.† It certainly placed him in an anomalous social position and although his father gave him an equal share by will, evidence is not wanting to indicate that there was little affiliation between the descendants of the two island branches for many years. The date of his death or that of his wife are unknown. His estate was adm. Aug. 1718, which is the proximate date, as far as now known. He was a wheelwright by trade.

390. Joseph,[3] b. abt. 1668.
391. Hester, b. (1672); m. Edward Cottle (9).

    III. Patience Allen.[4] She was living in 1711 but whether she survived to marry is not known.

390. Joseph[3] Daggett, (Joseph,[2] John[1]), b. abt. 1668, resided in T. and presumably followed the trade of his father. He m. Amy Eddy abt. 1685. dau. of John and Hepzibah (Daggett) Eddy of T., who was b. abt. 1668 and prob. pre-deceased her husband.* She was living 17 Nov. 1712 (Deeds ii.349), but was not mentioned in John Eddy's will of 1714, either because he had provided for her or she was dead. The will of Joseph Daggett dated 17 Oct. 1704, was not pro. until 12 Aug. 1718, the same year that his father's estate was administered. It would seem that the son's death necessitated the settlement of his father's large real estate interests.

DUNHAM FAMILY

The various descendants of this family now represented on the Vineyard or elsewhere through their children, belong to two separate lines running back to Deacon John of Plymouth, the original emigrant to this country.* The first, or elder, of the Vineyard lines traces its descent to the Rev. Jonathan Dunham, one of the younger sons of Deacon John, and well known as pastor of the church in E. The second line descends through Benajah Dunham, a nephew of Rev. Jonathan, who came to E. twenty years after the settlement of his uncle. Joseph, Daniel and Solomon, brothers of Benajah, also came to E. but were only transient residents and several isolated members of the Dunham family likewise resided on the Vineyard at different times, but these transients will not form any part of the family records hereinafter set forth. For the purpose of grouping the two lines first mentioned, the following genealogy will be divided into the "Tribe of Jonathan" and the "Tribe of Benajah."

TRIBE OF JONATHAN

The first of the name to settle in New England was (1) Deacon JOHN DUNHAM, (Donham, Downham), b. abt. 1590; a linenweaver, who is found among the English Pilgrims at Leyden, Holland, in 1622, as a widower betrothed to his second

* The author would be glad to save space and repetition of published matter in connection with this family by referring the reader to the Genealogy of the Dunham Family published 19— by the late Prof. Isaac W. Dunham, but his volume is so replete with errors respecting the Vineyard lines that it would be manifestly confirming the unfortunate series of mis-statements which his book advances and perpetuates. These errors are not confined to the Vineyard branches alone, else the author would hesitate to make this criticism. By its unsupported and conflicting statements it has added confusion to the records of a family whose genealogy has been the most difficult to develop.

wife,* ABIGAIL, dau. of Thomas and Anna BARLOW. Three children had been born to him before that year by his first wife, SUSAN KENNEY, and by his second marriage nine more were added to his family, among them Joseph[2] and Jonathan.[2] The latter named was the head of the branch now under consideration. John Dunham arrived in Plymouth with his family in 1633 and lived there until his death 1 Mch. 1668–9.

9. JONATHAN[2] DUNHAM, (John[1]), b. 1632, was pastor of the church in E. 1684–1717 and a biographical sketch of his life and labors may be read in Vol. II (Annals of E. p. 151) and nothing additional need here be recorded.† He m. (1) MARY DELANO, dau. of Philip 29 Oct. 1655, who d. without issue; (2) MARY COBB, dau. of Henry and Patience (Hurst) of Scituate, 15 Oct. 1657. She was the mother of all his children, but nothing is known of her life or death. He d. 18 Dec. 1717, and his will 28 June 1717 was pro. 15 Jan. 1718–19. The following children are named in the testament:

* The fanciful claim of the author of the Dunham Genealogy that Deacon John Dunham was a passenger of the Mayflower 1620 under the name of John Goodman which he assumed to avoid discovery of his identity and that he later resumed his true name, is without the slightest proof and rests only on a speculative foundation. Both John Dunham and John Goodman resided in Leyden as separate individuals; their several marriages are of record, and the death of John Goodman in Plymouth shortly after the arrival of the Mayflower is clearly established by competent authority. John Dunham was living in Leyden in October, 1622, and his second wife (not Abigail Wood as stated in the Dunham Genealogy) was in Leyden in the spring of 1624, and the strong presumption is that her husband was there at the same time. These simple facts upset the theory that John Dunham masqueraded as John Goodman.

† It is possible that he preached at Saco, Maine as early as 1659, as the records of that town contain a reference to complaints against one Robert Booth "for disturbing the minister, Mr. Dunnum." (Folsoms History of Saco and Biddeford).

he was Corporal of the town militia in 1691. He m. twice, but the name of his first wife is unknown. His second wife was Mrs. ESTHER (NORTON) (10) HUXFORD, wid. of Samuel of E. whom he m. abt. 1691. * The Dunham Genealogy calls her Rebecca Norton, but there was no one of that name at this period to answer the statement. The same authority gives her death as at Easthampton, Conn. 3 Feb. 1783, aged 99 years, 8 mos., and these statements are here recorded for what they are worth.

FISH–FISHER FAMILY

The family now bearing the name of Fisher on the Vineyard bore the name of Fish when it first was represented on the island by Thomas Fish, a mariner, who settled in E. abt.

1740. The name of Fish was retained until abt. 1800 when, for some reason unknown to the author, and as recorded in Parson Thaxter's record of 1804 "The family of Fish have changed their Name to Fisher". The origin of Thomas is at present not known, but from all circumstances he is believed to belong to the Fish family of Cape Cod, who originally settled in Lynn, Mass. 1635 and later rem. to Sandwich. This Fish-Fisher family is not to be confounded with the Fisher family who are represented by the late Dr. Daniel Fisher whose descent is from the Fishers of Dedham, Mass.

25. Thomas Fish(er), b. abt. 1700; res. E., mariner. He m. Ruth Butler (35), who was b. 1701 and d. Oct. 1785. He d. abt. 1758 and adm. of his est. was granted to his wid. June 1758. Inv. £144. 15. 6. They had the following named children:

"He went to bed well as usual and was dead by the side of his wife in the morning." (Thaxter). The annotations to the Edgartown Vital Records make No. 30 as the husband of No. 33 and sufficient doubt exists in the author's mind to call attention to the probability of error in assigning him as son of No. 25. It is probably that Thomas (31) and Sarah (33) married brother and sister of the Fish family of Falmouth. The following named children are presumed to be the issue of this marriage:

HILLMAN FAMILY

The incomplete sketch of the pioneer of this family (1) JOHN HILLMAN, (Vol. II, Annals of C., pp. 30–1), left much to be desired as a record of the ancestor of so prominent a family, but nothing can be added of material interest to the short and broken story of his career. Of his origin nothing further than suggestive reference to localities in England where Hillman families resided during that century can be offered for the future searcher. In southwestern England the name under the spellings Helman, Hylman, Hilman and Hillman are frequently found in Devon, Cornwall, Somerset and Gloucestershire. Josiah Helman lived in Boston and Hingham 1670–82 and a Thomas Hillman at Pemaquid, Me. 1674, but no evidence of relationship with our settler has been found.

A family of Huxfords resided in Long Bredy, Dorsetshire, 1550–1650 and the name is of frequent occurrence in the same county in the parish of Whitchurch Canonicorum. It is found as Uxford, Huggsford and possibly Horsforde is a variation. Samuel Huxford was a mariner and resided in Boston (1686), but whether he was a permanent resident of E. is not known,

* A Henry Huxford is mentioned in 1684 as debtor to the est. of Nicholas Wilmot of Boston in connection with the fitting out of a wrecking expedition. He was prob. a mariner as no further record of him appears.

The records of E. under date of 24 Sept. 1766 state that Deborah Instance and Samuel Smith were married "sometime in the Beginning of the winter before last". THE JERNEGAN FAMILY

10. THOMAS[2] JERNEGAN, (Thomas[1]), b. abt. 1695; came to the Vineyard in 1712 from Virginia with Capt. Joseph Jenkins (23). His father was a planter at a settlement called Somerton, Nansemond Co., where he had been granted 250 acres of land in 1668. It is probable that the name of his plantation was given in honor of the seat of the titled family of Jernegan of Somerly-Town, county Suffolk, whose pedigree, extending back to the 12th century, may be read in Suckling's Hist. of Suffolk II, 46, and representatives of this fine old English family still reside on the ancestral estates. The name is an abbreviation of Jerningham and a branch of this family seated at Costessey Hall adopts the latter form of the name. Weever, the old British antiquary, tells us that "the name hath been of exemplarie note before the Conquest" and states that they were of Danish origin, coming as soldiers from Denmark with Canute. Suckling adds: "There are few families in England who pretend to higher antiquity than the Norman invasion and it is probable that still fewer can authenticate their pretensions."

11. DAVID[2] JERNEGAN, a brother of Thomas,[2] also came to E., abt. 1720 but did not remain as a permanent resident. Thomas engaged in sea-faring pursuits and, marrying in E., established a residence which he maintained until his death which occurred at Jamaica in 1728. LUCE FAMILY

The biographical sketch of Henry[1] Luce in Vol. II, Annals of W.T., pp. 54–6, makes no definite mention of the English origin of this family and the author regrets that the somewhat extended researches made by him since that time have not resulted in conclusively establishing the parentage of the ancestor of this pioneer. The results of these researches, however, afford much hope that the real clue to the early home of Henry Luce has been followed almost to a successful conclusion and the results will now be briefly stated:

A descendant of the Long Island branch of the family through Eleazer (6) b. 1800, has left the following definite statement of family tradition regarding his ancestors: "My great great great great grandfather Israel Luce lived and died in Wales. My great great great grandfather Henry Luce was born in about 1645 and brought up in Wales. He married Remember Munson.* He sailed with his wife and three children to America in 1676, and landed and settled in Martha's Vineyard, Mass. where he reared a family of seven children."

While this statement contains several errors, it gives the only definite reference to a locality from which the Luce family may have originated. There is also a tradition that the family was of French origin with the intimation that it was originally De Luce. Of this possibility there is, however, not the slightest evidence obtainable, as far as the author knows, and the Welsh origin of the family is nearer confirmation as will be explained. The name of Luce in this country is confined exclusively to the descendants of Henry Luce of Tisbury and with one exception, no other person of the name of Luce settled in New England prior to 1750. That exception exists in the person of one "Harke" Luce who was a resident of Scituate in 1643, twenty years before the appearance of our Henry Luce in the same town. This singular baptismal name of "Harke", which the author now believes to have been a copyist's error for a similar name, has proven to be a clue to an English family of the name of Luce living in the west of England in 1600 near the border of Wales. The name of "Harke" Luce appears but once in the records of Scituate in a list of those able to bear arms in 1643, and an examination of thousands of English surnames of that period in English documents fails to disclose it, or one near enough like it to be mistaken for it except Harker or Hawke. In one county of England the family name of Luce has been found, namely: Gloucestershire, which borders on Wales and whose chief city is Bristol, the great seaport from which so many emigrants sailed for their future homes in New England.* A family of Luce lived in the parish of Horton, county of Gloucester, as early as 1550 and they are found there and in a number of surrounding parishes for a century and a half afterwards. Of this Horton family one Abraham Luce married 8 Oct. 1604 Cicely Darke, and this name is believed by the author to be the name originally copied in the Scituate records as "Harke", and Darke Luce of 1643 is offered as the possible progenitor of Henry Luce of the same town 1666. If not, he was a probable near relative who influenced the migration of Henry Luce and all the surrounding circumstances make this the nearest probable origin of the Vineyard family in the matter of their English home. It should be stated, however, that Abraham and Cicely (Darke) Luce had no child named Darke and the name of Darke does not occur on the parish records of Horton. The similarity of the names, Harke and Darke, is too great to be ignored when combined with the rare name of Luce, and while researches so far made have failed to uncover a Henry Luce in the parish of Horton, the adjoining parishes still unsearched may reveal the lost record of his baptism.

* Her name was Remember Litchfield. The name Munson is not known on the Vineyard and it may be the name of the wife of the traditional Israel Luce of Wales, as family lore usually mixes facts and generations.

Horton is but sixteen miles in a direct line from the Welsh border, and it is of general knowledge that thousands of people of Welsh origin are to be found in the parishes of Gloucestershire; thus the traditional story that Henry Luce was a son of Israel Luce "of Wales" is helped by the discoveries made by the author concerning this Gloucestershire family living so near to the Welsh border. Strengthening proof is added in the naming of Israel (4) a son of Henry (1). See remarks on the English origin of the BEVAN FAMILY in Addenda.

1. Henry Luce, b. abt. 1640; res. Scituate (1666), Rehoboth (1668), came to T., abt. 1670, where he lived until his

* The author during recent visits to England found Luce families in Cornwall, Devon and Kent, all of them having Henry as a Christian name. Scituate, Mass. was largely settled by emigrants from Kent and in the parish of Lyminge that county is recorded in 1614 the marriage of a Henry Luce. It is here noted as a reference for future investigators, but the family in Gloucestershire seems to offer the probable solution.

THE MARCHANT FAMILY

Owing to incompleteness and other defects in the earlier records of Yarmouth, Mass. and E., it has not been possible to collate satisfactorily the early generations of this family to meet the test of indisputable proof desirable in a genealogy, and the following arrangement of the first three generations is offered as the best solution of the problem of relationship and descent of this family from the immigrant ancestor, John Marchant. A biographical sketch of him may be read in Vol. II, Annals of E., pp. 77–79, to which nothing can be added here.

MAYHEW FAMILY

The chapter devoted to "The English Family of Mayhew" (Vol. I, pp. 104–116) comprises all that was known by the author at the time of its compilation but several things of material importance have since been discovered to be added to its conclusions. During two recent visits to England the compiler found evidence of the residence of the Governor's ancestors in Tisbury as early as 1520 indicating settlement there at a probable earlier date. Thomas[3] Mayhew, who is considered the grandfather of Gov. Thomas[5], was taxed for "goods", as of the Tithing of Tisbury, in 1540. (Sub. Roll 197/184.) In a deposition dated 30–31 Elizabeth (1589) this Thomas[3] Mayhew deposed at the age of 80 years to events and persons known to him in that parish for the past 63 years and more. This places his birth in 1509, his knowledge of events back to 1517 and it is probable that he was born in Tisbury.

THOMAS[3] MAYHEW (Robert[2], Simon[1]), third son of a Robert of Dinton, b. abt. 1509, called "yeoman", is the putative father of Matthew[4] of Tisbury and doubtless came to be a resident of the latter named parish through the marriage of his father Robert[2] with Joan Bridmore of Tisbury. It is probable that he inherited her estate there while the eldest son and heir retained possession of the Mayhew property in Dinton. He was buried in 1590 at Tisbury. His wife Alice predeceased him in 1586.

MATTHEW[4] MAYHEW (Thomas,[3] Robert,[2] Simon[1]), b. abt. 1550, resided in the parish of T., and is described in his will as a "yeoman" by which term is meant to be conveyed, legally speaking, a freeholder next under the rank of "gentleman"; for being descended from the line of a third son of an established family he had not the quality that then attached to the eldest branch. Nevertheless he was a man of substance and left to his heirs an estate valued at about seven thousand dollars in cash, besides his real property, as estimated by our present standards. He was buried 26 Feb. 1613–14 at T. His marriage to ALICE BARTER 2 Oct. 1587 is on record at T. and by her he had the following named children:

10. ELIZABETH,[5] bapt. 1 May 1589; m. JOHN GILBERT of Denny Sutton 18 Mch. 1612.
11. JOHN, bapt. 17 Jan. 1591.
12. THOMAS, bapt. 1 Apr. 1593.

16. EDWARD, bapt. 24 April 1602.

12. THOMAS[5] MAYHEW (Matthew[4]), bapt. 1 Apr. 1593 at Tisbury, Eng., is the Governor, first of the name in this country, whose personal history has been sufficiently detailed in the two preceding volumes. The name of his first wife is not known nor has any clue to the date and place of the marriage been found. Neither is it known when or where she died. He m. (2) Mrs. JANE (Gallion?)* PAINE, wid. of Mr. Thomas Paine, a London merchant, abt. 1634 (Vol. II, p. 90, Annals of E.). She was living 15 May 1666, but died before her husband. In London the compiler found references to a Gallion family, to which she may have belonged, and he has many other English notes relative to the Mayhews which he hopes to follow up in the future.

Some interesting additional facts have also been discovered by the compiler respecting the early life of Gov. Mayhew. It will be recalled (Vol. I, p. 114) that a contemporary writer states that the Governor was "a merchant bred in England, as I take it, at Southampton."

During a recent visit of the compiler to England confirmation of this was obtained which shows that this statement is correct. The following is verbatim copy of a record in the "Book of Free Commoners" belonging to the corporation of Southampton:

"Nono die ffebr' 1620 (i.e. 1621)
Thomas Mayhew late servant and apprntice unto Richard Masey of the Towne and countie of Southampton mrcer havinge well and truely served his spprntiship with his said mr whoe beinge prsent testified to the same
And he the said Thomas Mayhewe (desieringe to be admitted a free commoner of the said Towne to use his trade of a mrcer in this said Towne and his said mr likewise desieringe the same) was therefore this prsent daie admitted and sworren a free commoner accordingly."

*The name Gallion, if it be correctly given, is very rare in England. Galland is found in Green's Norton where the Paines owned property, and Gallyon in Ramsey, Huntingdonshire.

An interesting and important statement is therein found which recalls the statement of Thomas Macey of Nantucket (who is said to have emigrated from Chilmark, co. Wilts), that Governor Thomas Mayhew was his "honored cousin" (N. Y. Col. Mss., Vol. 25) and here is found documentary evidence that Thomas Mayhew was an apprentice of Richard Macey, a Southampton merchant. Richard Macey, his master, was a native of Chilmark and in his will of 20 Nov. 1633 he provided for his burial in that parish (Arch. Sarum X. 30). Undoubtedly further search would reveal the exact relationship of this Richard to Thomas Macey, the emigrant, and thus show the kinship between the families of Mayhew and Macey.

118. Jonathan[9] Mayhew, (Experience,[8] John,[7] Thomas,[6·5] Matthew[4]), b. 8 Oct. 1720; res. C.; rem. to Boston, clergyman. This celebrated divine was without question the most brilliant man of Vineyard origin, who left his native Island to become, in the metropolis of N. E., one of the foremost figures in the social, religious and political circles of pre-Revolutionary times. He was not only this, but no less a personage than President John Adams called him "the transcendant genius" of his day and his fame will endure and become more permanent as time goes on.

Of his early life on the Vineyard, in his native town of Chilmark, little is known, but it is said that his father intended him for a business career, having in view his own lean income after a long life spent in the ministry. This plan, however, did not materialize for the young man, showing studious habits early, with marked intellectual traits, and developing a religious temperament as he grew older, his father determined to send him to H. C. to follow in the footsteps of his older brother Nathan, who had been trained for the ministry, but had died only two years after graduation.* While in college, according to one of this leters to his father when he was visiting in York, Me., during a religious revival, he expressed in decided language his disapproval of the extravagancies and fanaticism of the affair, an early indication of the independent tendencies of his mind. Indeed he had inherited the germs of liberality from his father, who had frequently engaged in theological controversies with the great preachers of his generation. After graduation in 1744, it is probable that he was engaged in tutoring at college until June 1747, when he accepted a call to become pastor of the West Church in Boston. His preaching and public speaking before this had been so broad in spirit, and so unconventional that he wrote to his father: "the clergy of the town stand aloof from me and I have to study hard." When he was ordained every clergyman in the city either refused to attend or found excuses to be absent from this important church function and only pastors from the country churches

* It is said that the Rev. Experience sold some of his real estate to raise the money to furnish this collegiate course to the youngest son. It is prob. that Jonathan taught school between times to help defray his expenses.

took part in the ceremony. His aged father gave the "charge" to the newly made minister. This treatment, due solely to his alleged unsoundness in theological dogmas even extended to personal relations, such was the bigotry of the day, and many of his city colleagues tried to ostracise him socially. He was also without membership in the Boston Association of Congregational Ministers because of his heterodoxy, but all this had no effect upon his standing in the community nor with the people of his parish who saw in the brilliant young preacher one of the notable intellects of the Boston pulpit. He was indeed pre-eminently the pioneer of liberal religious thought in New England and the founder of that division of the old Puritan church now classed as Unitarian and Universalists and which found early expression in the pulpit of the West Church through him and his several successors.* Nor did he limit the activities of his mind to religious teachings alone, but he entered into the public discussions of the problems of the day with even more zeal and directness than would be tolerated in the pulpit. The Colonies were then beginning to show their teeth to the British ministry and preparing to resist peacefully every continuance of tyrannical government, and to continue resistance by force if necessary. As early as 1750 he published a remarkable "Discourse on Charles the First and the Doctrine of Passive Obedience and Non Resistance". This sermon or essay was received in England with general approval by the clergy and people not connected with the established church or the Court and its doctrines laid the foundation for further resistance of our people to ministerial oppression in the Colonies. President Adams said of him: "Dr. Mayhew seemed to be raised up to revive all the animosity of the people against tyranny within Church and State

* He was the first clergyman in New England to openly and definitely oppose the scholastic dogma of the Trinity as well as to deny the "five points" of Calvinism. This not only took great moral courage but it required great forensic and disputative knowledge to maintain his position as he had pitted against him the brightest intellects of that period which has been called the golden era of ministerial influence in New England.

and at the same time to destroy their bigotry, fanaticism and inconsistencies. This transcendant genius," he continues, "threw all the weight of his great fame into the scale of his country." Other public discourses were published in succeeding years, but his sermons regularly delivered at the weekly services were full of his reflections on the social and political tendencies of the times and kept alive the revolutionary spirit of the people. In 1763 he published his "Observations on the Conduct of the Society for Propagating the Gospel", a savage attack on the managers for what he believed to be their plan to divert the revenues of the Society from its original object to that of establishing bishoprics and a State Church in New England. Like its predecessor it created a profound impression and provoked bitter rejoinders. His published sermons had attracted such favorable notice in England among the clergy that he was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity by the University of Aberdeen, Scotland, when he was but thirty years old, while his political addresses and published discourses gained the applause of the liberal statesmen of the Whig party of Great Britain and he kept up until his death a continued correspondence with both the leading clergymen and notable politicians of the mother country. Among the latter was Thomas Hollis, the wealthy and munificent merchant of London. In 1766, he published his "Discourse on the Repeal of the Stamp Act", which gained the approval of the great Whig minister, William Pitt, to whom it was dedicated, and this proved to be his last contribution to the burning questions of the times. Although tradition has brought down to us, and it is confirmed by the pencil of the artist, that he was a man of handsome and distinguished appearance, yet it appears he was either inherently not vigorous of body or that his activities in parish work and public speaking had undermined his constitution. After a journey to Vermont in June 1766 to attend a parish council, he returned to Boston exhausted and took to his bed, never again to rise. At the early age of 45 years and 9 months he died on July 8, 1766 "of a nervous fever, overplied by public energies", as stated in the legend beneath his portrait. The loss to his parish and to the community was marked by profound sorrow. Numerous "elegies" remain in print to mark the esteem of private and public friends in all walks of life both at home and abroad. He will be remembered as the great pulpit orator and patriot of his time who but a month before his death proposed a "communion of the Colonies" along the same line as that of "communion of the churches", (Letter to Hollis.). Robert Treat Paine, signer of the Declaration of Independence, said "he was the father of civil and religious liberty in Massachusetts and New England."

He married one of the most beautiful belles of her time, Elizabeth Clarke, dau. of Dr. John and Elizabeth (Breame) Clarke of Boston, a wealthy physician who lived in a famous mansion at the north end of Boston known as the Mayo-Clarke house. She was b. in 1733 and their marriage took place 2 Sept. 1756. She is described as not only beautiful in person but possessed of a character as attractive with all the desirable and lovable womanly attributes, and as the wife of the most popular clergyman of his time, she rivalled him in the admiration of his parishioners and other friends. Their portraits painted by the celebrated artist Copley, which were unfortunately destroyed in the great fire of Boston in 1872, bore out the contemporaneous opinions of the times as to the great beauty of the wife and the handsome features of the husband. The engraved portrait of Rev. Jonathan Mayhew which is the frontispiece of Vol. II of this work bears testimony to this general tradition of his clear-cut classic face. It was engraved in 1767, after his death, from the Copley portrait by the Italian artist Cipriani in folio size 10 x 13 inches at the request and expense of Thomas Hollis, Esq. of London, the well-known benefactor of Harvard College. Although in his life he had preached powerful sermons against the establishment of bishops, it is one of the strange evolutions in family history that his grandson became one of the noted bishops of the American Church, the Rev. Dr. Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright of the diocese of New York. Through this line have been descended a posterity distinguished alike in the military, naval, political and social life of the nation.

After the death of Rev. Jonathan Mayhew, the beautiful young widow remained unmarried for eight years although the recipient of constant and importunate tenders of proposal of marriage from numerous admirers. She finally accepted and married 3 Dec. 1771 the Rev. SIMEON HOWARD of Boston, Mayhew's successor in the pastorate of the West Church, who is described as the personal and temperamental antithesis of the famous pulpit orator who preceded him. She did not long survive, however, and d. in April 1777 at the early age of 44 years. The Rev. Jonathan Mayhew left two surviving children, both daughters, one of them dying in infancy shortly after her father and the line ceased for want of male issue. Inventory of his estate returned 27 July 1769 shows property valued at £323–17–5.

THE MERRY FAMILY

A biographical sketch of JOSEPH MERRY (1) the ancestor of this family, may be found in Vol. II, Annals of W. T., pp. 58–60, and nothing has since been found to add further knowledge of him or his antecedents.* The name is very rarely found in English records of his time except in the southwest counties, particularly in Gloucestershire, but no connection has been established between him and his home in England prior to migration. He m. (1) MARY ————, who d. 4 Apr. 1657; (2) Mrs. ELIZABETH (Parkhurst) HILLIARD abt. Dec. 1659 (wid. of Emanuel) HILLIARD of Hampton, N. H. dau. of George and Phebe Parkhurst of Ipswich, England, where she was bapt. 18 May 1628. The date of her death is unknown. He d. a centenarian 15 Apr. 1710 being, as his gravestone states, "103 years old." and it further amplifies his advanced years by the following legend: "That being verified in him Psalm 92, v. 14: They shall bring forth fruit in old age," which is not an exact quotation, nor is the reference correct.†

---

* He was related to Phillip Wollidge of Salisbury, Mass. whom he called "nephew" and possibly to Henry Monday of the same town, who also called Woollidge his nephew. Henry Smith of London, gent. in his will 1647 made a bequest to his "nephew" Henry Mundy. These relationships may be clues to Joseph Merry's antecedents.

† "They also shall bring forth more fruit in their age". (Psalm 92, v. 13.) The claim of fruitfulness in old age is not strikingly illustrated in this case as he was but 62 when his last child was born.

There were a number of transient persons named Nickerson who resided in C and T. or married there, leaving no families of record. Reference to the published vital records of those towns must be had for their scattering items under the spellings Nicholson, Nichoson and Nickason.

Samuel Nickerson was an inn-holder in T. 1749–1753; rem. to Boston.

THE NORTON FAMILY

Of the first of the name on the Vineyard, Nicholas Norton, a full biographical sketch has been given in this history (Vol. II, pp. 85–90 Annals of E.), and nothing of material importance about him has been found since that was written except the statements which follow concerning his English ancestry.*

The opinion hazarded in the sketch of his life above referred to that Nicholas "emigrated from Somersetshire and probably came from the vicinity of Batcombe or Broadway in that county" has been established to the satisfaction of the author after a long search of all the known sources of records which might throw light on the case. His business dealings with Richard Standerwicke, a clothier, of the parish of Broadway, has proved to be the important clue in locating this prominent pioneer as a resident and probable native of the same parish.†

The Norton family was long settled in Somersetshire where the name was generally spelled Nourton and Nurton in the earlier records, and there are references to them as early as 1400 in wills and deeds. They are to be found in more than a dozen different parishes in that county before 1600, including the parish of Broadway. Wills, depositions, chancery suits, and other documents of the 16th century show that a Norton family, tanners, lived at White Lackington, an adjoining hamlet of Broadway, and the fact that Nicholas Norton of Edgartown was a tanner is quite significant.‡ In those days occupations were continued in families from generation to generation.

The first known ancestor of Nicholas Norton was WILLIAM NORTON, tanner, of White Lackington about 1540 described as the eldest of the family, but his parentage is unknown. He had

* One fact is worthy of record as being recently discovered. He served in the Pequot War, 1636-7 as shown by a petition of himself and others. (Sup. Jud. Court Mss. No. 477).

† Standerwicke sold to Norton in 1639 "all the cattle whether cowes, steers or calves, whatsoever I have with Mr. Hull in New England." (Plymouth Col. Rec.). The Standerwick family have been Lords of the Manor in Broadway for over four hundred years and possessed their manorial records for four centuries. I am indebted to the Rev. Mr. Standerwick for assistance in my search and notes from his family records on the Norton family.

‡ John Norton of White Lackington, a tanner, was a witness to the will of John Standerwick of Broadway in 1568, but the Manor Rolls of 1555 do not contain his name. William Norton was churchwarden of Ilminster in 1543, a still earlier record of the family in that vicinity.

two younger brothers, JOHN, also a tanner who made his will in 1576, and ROBERT NORTON, who took up his residence in the cathedral city of Wells where he followed the occupation of innholder and was at the date of his death (1590) without issue. He left considerable property to his nephews.

WILLIAM NORTON of White Lackington was born abt. 1535 and was living in 1604 in Broadway. He had among other children two sons, namely:

I. NICHOLAS, b. 1562.
II. WILLIAM, executor of the will of his uncle, Robert of Wells.

Robert Norton of parish of S. Cuthbert, Wells, innholder, at his decease had four water mills, which he disposed of by will dated 1590, viz: two to his wife and two to his brother William.

In 37 Elizabeth (1594) Joan the widow, William and Nicholas began suit against William Norton the executor, and litigation was continued by John, the son of Nicholas. The latter had followed the prosecution of this suit for 22 years, according to the complaint of John, to the ruin of his estate and in the end "sickened & died with great greife & anguishe of minde leavinge behinde him a poor widdowe and 8 children (1616) whereof yo^{r} subject is the eldest, but not one pennye towards their reliefe & maintenance other than the hopes of the said decree, by means of whose death his wiffe & children have nott only lost a carefull pvider for them but also a possibilitie of an estate w^{ch} the said Nicholas had, after the said William the executor, worth at least 200 marks."*

NICHOLAS NORTON, the father of the emigrant, removed from White Lackington with his father when a child, and died there at the age of 54 years (1616) as described in the chancery suit.

* Star Chamber Proceedings, (James I) 221/10, John Norton of Broadway, Chapman, plaintiff vs. William Norton et als defendants. The compiler has much other material on this family, which is omitted for want of space. Doubtless the complete pedigree of this family could be worked out in England from the authors' notes.

That he was a man above the average is shown by the fact of his occupying the position of church warden of the parish (1599) but as the parish register does not exist prior to 1678 it is not possible at present to determine the names of but half of his eight children. The attested copies of parish registers then required by church law preserved the names of three of them and the chancery suit furnishes the name of his eldest son. Unfortunately, the Bishops Transcripts of Broadway Parish in the Diosceasan Registry at Wells for the years 1609–11 inclusive, the particular years in which we should undoubtedly find the baptism of our Nicholas whose birth fell, as we know, within those years are missing from the files.

His known children are as follows:

I. John, b. abt. 1590.
II. Joan, bur. 1598.
III. James (?) bur. 1678 at Broadway.
IV. Joseph, bapt. 3 Feb. 1607.
V. Nicholas, b. 1610 (the emigrant). He deposed in 1676 aged 66 years.
VI. Elizabeth, bapt. 1612.

The occurrence of the names Joseph and Nicholas in the Broadway family which were also distinctive in the Vineyard family together with other collateral circumstances makes it practically certain that we have here the parentage and home of the first of this family to settle on Martha's Vineyard. All other clues have been carefully followed out and give no such marked combination of the probabilities as does this, and the author is satisfied that it is the right solution.

Broadway, situated in the Hundred of Bulstone, is so-called, because it consists of one wide street leading from Ilminster two miles distant to the Forest of Roche on the West. It has about fifty houses with about 300 population and two religious edifices, one belonging to the Church of England, dedicated to S. Aldhelm, where the parents of Nicholas Norton worshipped, and a dissenting chapel of which latter named the present minister is the Rev. John W. Standerwick, a direct descendant of the Richard Standerwick, who had the business dealings with Nicholas Norton.*

Nicholas Norton undoubtedly found his wife Elizabeth ———— in Weymouth, or an adjoining town after his arrival in New England, but no record of his marriage has been found and nothing to indicate her family name. They had eleven children, four sons and seven daughters; three of the former—Isaac, Joseph and Benjamin left issue and in the following genealogy their descendants will be divided for convenience sake into three "tribes" named for these three sons respectively according to seniority. By wife Elizabeth he had the following named children:

abt. 1775, the first being HENRY[1] OSBORN, a hatter by trade. He was b. 1751 (as shown by his gravestone) and m. ELIZABETH PEASE (664?), who was b. 1759 and d. 20 Feb. 1838. The town records show that he was adm. inhab. of E. 18 July 1791, while his wife and first three children were baptized ten years previously (1781). He d. 3 Feb. 1808 in his 57th year. THE PEASE FAMILY

The English origin of this family and an extended biographical sketch of JOHN PEASE (37), the founder of the Vineyard branch of the American family of Pease, may be found in Vol. I, p. 95, and Vol. II, Annals of E.; pp. 91–103, and the statements there made remain as the author's final conclusions, concerning him as they have not been disturbed or modified by any subsequent research.* In common with other families who were early settlers of the Island, it suffers from an almost complete lack of records of the first few generations, but these have been substituted as far as possible from collateral evidences and probable dates and relationships are given to complete the record. As previously stated John Pease, the Settler, m. (1) LUCY WESTON and (2) MARY ————, the latter surviving him and removing to Portsmouth, N. H. where her 2d husband, Thomas Creber lived.

* Knowing that the late Richard L. Pease and his daughter, the late Harriet Marshall Pease, had for years been engaged in the compilation of the genealogy of their family resident on the Vineyard and its branches elsewhere, the author secured from Miss Pease her promise to prepare for this history a genealogy of the family from her manuscript collections and confined himself to the gathering of such material as might have escaped their search. Shortly before her death the author's notes were compared with those of Miss Pease and the resulting record now appears with her approval as agreeing with the final results of the researches of herself and father.

68. Benjamin,[3] b. 1676.

55. Samuel[2] Pease, (John[1]), b. abt. 1655, who was living in 1674, is believed to be identical with the Capt. Samuel Pease, commander of the sloop of war "Mary", fitted out by the Massachusetts Colony in 1689 to protect the coast from the attacks of French privateers and pirates operating under letters of marque granted by the King of France. On Oct. 4, 1689 he was engaged in battle with one of three pirate vessels near Tarpaulin Cove and during the encounter was "shott in severall places". He defeated the enemy, capturing vessel and crew, but his wounds were of such a serious character that he was taken to Newport, R. I. for treatment and "did grievously languish" until his death Oct. 12, 1689 and his remains were buried there. Various records concerning the affair are extant showing that he "left a widow and foure Orphans in a poore and low condition," for whom collections were taken up in churches throughout the Colony. The names of wife and children are unknown, but it is believed that they removed to New Hampshire and are the ancestors of the Pease's of that state who have the tradition that Martha's Vineyard was the home of their progenitor.* It is certain that Samuel disappeared from the Vineyard records and this is the only known way to explain the fact, and the following children are credited to him:

ROTCH FAMILY

Information heretofore available from traditional sources and family legends has credited Cape Cod as the earliest home of the Rotches in N. E., but recent investigation by the author has resulted in a revision of these traditions and placed the real progenitor one generation farther back in another part of the Colony of Massachusetts.

1. William[1] Rotch, (Roche, Roach), called a weaver and prob. b. abt. 1650, is found at Salem* before 1692, where he had m. Hannah Potter, dau. of Nicholas and Mary (Gedney) of that town, (1690), who was b. 27 Mch. 1665–6. Her father was a bricklayer and lived on a tract of land known to this day as Roache's Point after it came into her possession by inheritance in the division of his estate. William Rotch, d. abt. 1705 and his wid. m. (2) Daniel Darling, cordwainer, 15 Mch. 1717, whose deeds to her son established the identity of the Rotches of Cape Cod as descended from the weaver of Salem.

11. Hannah, b. 12 Oct. 1694.
12. Elizabeth, b. 16 Apr. 1697; perh. m. David Webb.

* The family tradition is that he was a native or resident of Salisbury, Eng., and emigrated in 1689, but researches have not confirmed this. There were Rotches in Bristol, England at that period. As the Rotches became identified with the Quakers it has been supposed they were of that sect in England, but it has not been proved.

(Essex Register XXXIII. 217.) In 1723 he is called "whalefisherman" (ibid XLIII. 16). He may have been a resident of Bristol with wife Dinah in 1715 bef. settling at the Cape and his last place of abode was Provincetown, where he was an "innholder" and it is said his death occurred in Boston. On 4 Apr. 1746, his wid. was appointed admx. of his est. He m. SKIFFE FAMILY

There was a James Skiffe, resident of Chelsea, near London, who was buried there 12 June 1609, evidently a Puritan from the language of his will. He left a widow Margery (who afterwards married William Sheppie) and seven children: Rebecca, who afterwards married Thomas Lovell; Susanna, William, Elizabeth, Obadiah, Anne and Joshua. Two others, John and Mary, had died young at Chelsea. The registers of old Chelsea church show that John was baptized there, but there is no baptismal entry for Rebecca the eldest child. John was baptized 1 May 1592 and William in 1599, but neither could have been father of the emigrant. It is possible that he was a nephew of the testator or a near relative. The name Obadiah is worthy of note as it appears in a descendant of the emigrant.

1. James[1] Skiffe, b. abt. 1610, the ancestor of this family in America, of whom a biographical sketch may be read in Vol. II, Annals of W. T., pp. 71–2, has thus far escaped identification in his English home despite continued efforts in tracing every available clue. While the name is very rare in England, it is found quite numerous in a group of parishes near London, as Eltham 1559, Newenden 1578, Lewisham 1589, Mottingham

1603, Greenwich 1620, Charlton 1645, besides scattering occurrences of the name in various London parishes of that period. The name is found in variations of Skeffe, Skyffe, Skaffe and other intermediate spellings but the name of James is absent in all these quoted instances. His children were as follows:

2. James,[2] b. 12 Sept. 1638.

He retired to his native place to enjoy the fruits of this strenuous toil and has spent the rest of his life—nearly half a century—in works of usefulness in the social and political life of the Vineyard. He has held both county and town offices with credit to himself and benefit to the island. In the Masonic Lodge he was Worshipful Master for 13 terms. No story of Tisbury and the Vineyard today would be complete without some reference to this fine upstanding citizen and the compiler here places this tribute to him out of a great personal regard. Capt. Smith m. MARY H. CANNON, now deceased, (without issue).

50. Dr. RUFUS[5] SPALDING, (Ebenezer,[4] Edward,[3] Benjamin,[2] Edward[1]), b. 8 Jan. 1760 in Canterbury, Conn. came to W. T. in 1783, where he became a leading citizen of that town and later of Homes Hole and filled many places of trust for nearly a quarter of a century. He lived on Beach St. in the dwelling now known as the Branscomb house. Besides his professional occupation as the village doctor he was Postmaster, Justice of the Peace, School Trustee, Village Librarian, Master of the Masonic Lodge to afford an outlet for his activities, and likewise was landlord of public tavern. He returned to his native state in 1812 settling at Norwich, where he d. 22 Aug. 1830. He m. LYDIA PAINE 10 Jan. 1782 by whom he had issue:

66. RUFUS PAINE SPALDING was one of the most distinguished natives of W. T., and although he left the Vineyard when in his teens his connection with the old town as his birthplace will always be remembered with pride. Beginning his education in the little town school it was continued at Bridgewater, Mass. and Plainfield, Conn. until he matriculated at Yale 1813 and from which in 1817 he received his Baccalaureate degree. He studied law with Chief Justice Zephaniah Swift at Windham, Conn. and repaid his preceptor by marrying his daughter, LUCRETIA A. SWIFT, 1 Oct. 1822, and rem. to Ohio to continue his lifework. He entered public life as a member of the State Legislature 1839–42 and became Speaker of the House during his second term and was re-elected to that office the next year. In 1849 he was elected Judge of the Supreme Court of Ohio and a biographer has written of him: "He brought to the exalted position the force of a vigorous and cultivated intellect imbued with a profound knowledge of the law and enriched with classical attainments of no ordinary character. It is at least no disparagement to others to say that Judge Spalding has never had a superior on the Bench of the state." After retiring from this office which had a limited term he practiced law in Cleveland and held first rank as an advocate.

In political life he was originally a Democrat until the passage of the Fugitive Slave Act when he became an ardent Free-soiler. At the convention of this new party held at Pittsburgh, Pa. 1852, he nominated John P. Hale for President and, four years later at the next convention, he was instrumental in fixing the name "Republican" on the new party and became prominent in its development during the remainder of his public career. He was elected Representative to Congress from his District in 1862 and was continuously re-elected until 1869 when he resigned. Of his qualities as a statesman, Hon. Thaddeus Stevens once remarked to a colleague "Spalding is the right bower of intellectual liberty." He was a member of the Episcopal church and an officer of Trinity Parish, Cleveland, Ohio. He d. in that city 27 Aug. 1886, aged 88 years.

This strange name belonged to two persons resident in E. in the 18th century; it also appears as Tizaker in the other rare instances where found, as Martha Tizaker of Boston in 1734 was published in marriage. William Stizacre, apparently the elder of the two, of whose antecedents nothing is known, appeared in E. with wife Dorcas, b. 1720, and they were the parents of Mary Stizacre, bapt. 21 Aug. 1763. SWAIN

Several members of the Swain family of Nan. became connected with the Vineyard by marriage and as transient and permanent residents or land owners. William Swain owned land at Chickemmoo 1720–40 and a William Swain, perh. his son, b. 28 Feb. 1748 m. Parnell Luce (231) and both d. in 1814. Peter Swain was rated in T. 1766 and a Mary Swain d. in T. 30 Jan. 1769.

Benoni Swain, b. 1704, prob. son of Benjamin and Elizabeth (Cleveland) Swain of Nan. was living in E. 1734. Juror that year and bought and sold land there from 1739 to 1753 when he purchased property in T. and remained there until his death 13 Sept. 1767 in his 64th year. He m. Denmark, who assumed the name of Swain after his settlement in that village.

SWASEY FAMILY

There appeared on the Vineyard, at Edgartown, about 1765, two persons bearing the names of JOSEPH and ANTHONY SWASEY, who can be assumed to be brothers. As far as known, they have no connection with any Swasey (Swazey, Swayzee) family in New England.* A descendant furnished the compiler in 1910 with the following statement regarding the origin of the Swaseys of Edgartown and it is here inserted as a traditional part of the record.

> "JOSEPH SWASEY (presumably Jose de Souza) was born in Lisbon, Portugal and d. at Martha's Vineyard in 1808. Because of his unusual mental attainments and the fact of having means, he was thought to have left his country and family because as younger son he was destined for the priesthood. He became a Protestant, married, prospered financially and became an influential member of the community. Joseph Swasey, Sr. sent his son, Joseph, with letters and papers in 1803 to see his family in Lisbon but the ship was never heard from."

The compiler has no evidence to adduce in support of this tradition. It is to be said that Parson Thaxter made no mention of the alien origin of this family when recording their deaths and as he particularly mentioned the change of spelling of the names of two other Edgartown families (Fish to Fisher and Vinson to Vincent) his omission to do so in this case of translation from Sousa to Swasey is worthy of consideration.

* A Genealogy of the Swasey Family of America by Benjamin Franklin Swasey of Exeter, N. H., published privately 1911, makes no mention whatever of the Vineyard family; and as this volume of over 500 pages comprises all of the name, in New England, New York and New Jersey, it must be concluded that the island family did not belong to any of the lines treated therein.

The name is uniformly written Swasey or Swazey in the Edgartown records from the first entry (1768) and if there was any change from a Portuguese to an Anglicized form it must have been made by them before they settled on the Vineyard. There was a Manuel Suzan or de Suzan, a mariner, "son of Joseph and Mary," b. 1810, living in Edgartown as late as 1846, who bore an unadulterated Portuguese name, but it does not appear that this person was related to the supposed Sousa-Swasey family, unless we assume that Suzan and Sousa are interchangeable and that one branch retained their original spelling. Whatever the romance in the case may be the plain facts from the records are as follows:

1. JOSEPH[1] SWASEY, evidently brother of Anthony[1] Swasey and related to Joseph[1] Swasey, "Jr." of Chappaquiddick, was b. 25 Nov. 1743 and d. 27 Feb. 1807. He was a master mariner by occupation. He m. SUSANNA PEASE (326) 6 Nov. 1766, who was b. 1744 and d. his widow 11 May 1824; "she was long confined to her bed, underwent great pain" as Parson Thaxter records. They had the following named children:

10. BETSEY,[2] b. 7 July 1768.
11. SUSANNAH, b. 7 Dec. 1770; d. 9 Sept. 1773.
12. MARY, b. 9 Dec. 1772; perh. m. LITTLETON COOKE.
13. JOSEPH, b. 11 Apr. 1775; lost at sea, 1813.
14. ELIZABETH, b. 30 June, 1776.
15. SUSANNAH, b. 4 July 1777; m. THOMAS WORTH of Husdon, N. Y. 8 Aug. 1802.
16. PAUL, b. —— 1778; bapt. 16 Sept. 1788 "10 yr. old".
17. FAUSTINA, b. 19 Sept. 1779; m. ROBERT WIMPENNY 3 May 1798.
18. JULIANA, b. 8 Oct. 1781, pri. rec., bapt. 25 Nov. 1781; m. BERIAH PEASE of Hudson, N. Y. int. 14 Sept. 1800.
19. HEPSIBAH, bapt. 2 May 1784; m. WM. COOKE 29 Dec. 1810.
20. CLARISSA, bapt. 9 Dec. 1787; buried 16 Dec. 1787, aet. 13 days.
21. ELIHU, bapt. 13 Nov. 1791; m. JULIA WHELDEN (int.) 13 Nov. 1824.

ANTHONY[1] SWASEY, evidently a brother of Joseph (1), born perhaps abt. 1748, lived in Edgartown, contemporaneously and married JERUSHA DUNHAM (167) 10 Aug. 1774. As there is no record of their deaths it may be that they removed from the Vineyard sometime after the baptism of their last child. They had the following issue:

30. Seth,[2] b. abt. 1775; prob. m. Lurana Fish (int.) 1 Nov. 1801.
31. Hannah.
32. Jared.
33. Jonathan.
34. Mary.
35. Naomi.

(These five children all baptized 23 Aug. 1796.)

36. Henry Osborn, bapt. 20 Aug. 1805.
37. Lucretia, b. (——); m. Jabez Rowley 11 March 1802.
38. Abigail, b. (——); m. David Lambert 4 Oct. 1797.

Joseph Swasey, "Jr." of Chappaquiddick, who had a son b. 1777 and buried 15 Aug. 1782 is possibly a cousin of the preceding Joseph and Anthony. He was born 1750 and was buried 23 July 1785, aged 35 years. He left a widow Elizabeth, who m. (2) 28 Aug. 1785 Frank Weeks. As Faustina (Swasey) Wimpenny, dau. of Joseph,[1] named one of her children Frank Weeks, it would indicate that there was a relationship not shown by the records.

Ebenezer Talcott, b. 1756; mariner, came to E. and m. Anne Smith (109) 3 Mch. 1777. He d. in Surinam 1791 and the name disappears from the records after that date. They had the following named children:

Ten of the name were living in 1850. By these two marriages he had the following named children:

Family Genealogies

TILTON FAMILY

1. Samuel[2] Tilton, (William[1]), of whom a biographical sketch has been given in Vol. II, Annals of C., pp. 39–40, is the ancestor of all of the name on the Island, although John Tilton (500) a descendant of the New Jersey family of the name came to C. abt. the middle of the 18th century and m. Jane Tilton (85) by whom he had eleven children. No additional facts have been found concerning the pioneer or his ancestry. As he came to the Vineyard with Isaac Chase, a Quaker, and was related to him by marriage, and Parson Homes, in his diary states that he was "against swearing", i. e. in taking the legal oath in the name of Deity, it is a strong inference that he was a Quaker, or in accord with their beliefs. WIMPENNY FAMILY

This is an old English surname found in the western shires of England and its earliest form of spelling in 1516, Wimpenny (Henry, bailiff of Bristol) is found varied as Vympany, Wynpeny, Wympaney, Whempeney, Wilpeney and Wellpeny. The first of his name on the Vineyard (1) WILLIAM WIMPENNY, spelled his name as shown in his well-written signature. The name is most frequently found in Devonshire and Gloucestershire and it is probable that the ancestor of the Vineyard family came from one of those counties.* It is not known whence he came to the Island nor the date of his birth. He settled in C. and m. HANNAH CLARK (36) 26 Feb. 1746, who was b. 19

* The Colonial Records of Rhode Island have the following entry: "Last Tuesday of Feb. 1727–8, Robert Winpenny of Newport admitted freeman." In view of the fact that the name Robert is found among the children of the first Vineyard settler, it is probable that he was the ancestor of the Island family.

June 1723, but the date of his death is not known. He was living 1769 and the William[1] Wimpenny taxed in W. T. 1777, 1784 and 1786 is probably his son. LATER GENERATIONS

The Dukes County Historical Society, having among its committees one on Family Genealogies, desires subscribers and others, who are descended from the families treated in this book to send to the Society records of their connection with the families herein listed for deposit and probable future use. These genealogies are only brought down to the beginning of the last century and it is hoped that this Society will become the depositary of the records of scattered Vineyard pioneers, so that it may be a source of information in years to come.

Family Genealogies

ADDITIONS

ADAMS

Recent investigations by the compiler in England prove that HENRY ADAMS, the emigrant ancestor, was a native of the parish of Barton St. David, Co. Somerset, and son of John Adams. His wife was EDITH SQUIRE, daughter of Henry Squire of Charlton Mackrell. This was the Adams family from which Presidents, John and John Quincy Adams, descended.

ALLEN

REBECCA, (331) b. 1775; d. 2 May 1813; m. as second wife EBENEZER A. POPE.

ZACCHEUS MAYHEW (334) m. ABIGAIL PROCTOR.

JOHN, (335) b. 4 July 1793; m. ELIZABETH MACKIE and had two sons, WILLIAM and JOHN.

BEVAN FAMILY

See p. 67, Annals of W. T. for a sketch of ARTHUR BEVAN. All of his children were born in this town prior to his removal to Glastonbury, Conn. about 1696. He d. soon after arrival there (1697) and inventory of his estate was returned by wid. MARY at £269-10-09, of which £45 was property in Middletown, Conn. He left the following children:

JOHN, b. 1676.
MARY, b. 1678.
GRACE, b. 1679.
MERCY, b. 1681.
THOMAS, b. 1682; living in G. in 1713.
DESIRE, b. 1684.
ARTHUR, b. 1686.
JOANNA, b. 1687.
ELIZABETH, b. 1690.
ABIGAIL, b. 1692.
SARAH, b. 1694.
ANNA, b. 1696.

Dr. Arthur Dean Bevan, President of the American Medical Association and Col. James L. Bevan, M. C. U. S. A. are descendants of this pioneer settler. It only remains to record some suggestion as to his English origin. The name is undoubtedly a Welsh patronymic derived from Evan with the prefix "Ap" meaning "son of", producing the name ap-Evan, which became Bevan. An Arthur Bevan lived in the parish of Yate, Co. Gloucester, and four miles from that parish in Horton there lived a Luce family for many generations. It is significant that Arthur Bevan came to W.T. in 1677 as neighbor to Henry Luce. That two people bearing the unusual names of Bevan and Luce should be found established so closely in Gloucestershire and Tisbury is regarded by the author as tantamount to confirmation of the English origin of both in that County, thus verifying "tradition".

BUTLER

DANIEL BUTLER, (663) b. 26 Jan. 1761, of whom nothing further was known, is probably identical with the Daniel

Butler who settled in Danube, Herkimer Co., N. Y., and whose descendants have a tradition that he was born on Martha's Vineyard. He m. MARY COVELL, undoubtedly a daughter of James Covell (40) of E. and a twin sister of James (70). She was b. 19 May 1764 and d. 17 April 1838. Her brother, Eliphalet Covell (66) also removed to Danube, N. Y. They had the following named children:

VOLINA; m. JAMES STEWART LUDINGTON. Children: James Stewart, Matthew Butler, Elizabeth and a son, d. in infancy.

WILLIAM, b. 1796; d. 31 Dec. 1859, aged 63 yrs.; lived at Frankfort, N.Y.; m. SARAH PALMER, who was b. 1805, and d. 14 Sept. 1883, aged 78 yrs. They had Cornelia, Helen, Ann, Charles (?) and Wealthy Jane.

DANIEL, b. 1805; m. MARY J. STREETER 15 Jan. 1835. He was killed on shipboard during Mexican War.

SARAH, b. abt. 1809; d. abt. 1884, bur. Frankfort, N. Y.; m. WARNER W. DYGERT of Frankfort, N. Y.; (grandparents of Frank Dygert Deuel of Schenectady, who furnished this information to the compiler.) Ch.: Mary Charlotte, m. William H. Deuel; Sarah Maria, m. Elias Llewellen; Dione C., a son d. in infancy.

Recent investigation established by satisfactory evidence of official record shows that Shubael Claghorn (43) of Chilmark had another daughter:

102a. MARY, b. abt. 1731; m. JOHN SKIFFE (81a) abt. 1753.

COTTLE

ROBERT COTTLE (113) was b. 15 Dec. 1758 and d. 7 Jan. 1846.

LUCE

ANDREW LUCE (403) was a Revolutionary soldier in Capt. Elias Wild's company Oct. 1780 in a march to Royalton and Haverhill on an alarm. The Vermont records of his marriages in 1775 and 1814 credit him to Hartland.

ROGERS

ELIPHALET ROGERS (62) removed to Hartland, Vt., and was living there in 1790 with a family. He was captured during the Revolution and confined in prison several years prior to his removal to Hartland. A grandson, Jerome Rogers, who died in 1906 was his last descendant. Arthur, Benjamin, Nathaniel and Paul Rogers are also found in Hartland, and it is probable they were brothers of Eliphalet.

ROTCH

1. WILLIAM[1] ROTCH. INDEX

In using this volume the searcher for information can be guided (1) by the alphabetical arrangement of the families, which enables him to turn at once to the particular family desired, and (2) in seeking marriage alliances with that particular family the cross index, which follows will furnish the desired information. It has not been considered necessary by the compiler to index the family names occurring in each genealogy as they are mostly short and require little time in examination to locate the name in each particular family. To do so would extend the size of this volume unnecessarily. As it is, every person who married will appear in the cross index.

A person using this volume to ascertain his line of descent from the first settler may use the following example as a guide to its use for all cases:—We will suppose that the searcher is the son of Philander Daggett, whose name appears as 385 in that family on page 140. It is noted that he is the son of 245—Peter Daggett. The No. 245 refers to his lineal number shown on page 135, where that number occurs. Peter is the son of 112—William Daggett and turning back to page 131, it is seen that he is the son of 61—Seth Daggett. Again turning back to the lineal number 61 on page 129 it is found that Seth is the son of 30—Samuel Daggett. On page 128, 30—Samuel is the son of 10—Thomas Daggett, page 127, and on the same page, this Thomas is the son of 3—Thomas, and 3—Thomas is the son of John, the first settler on the Island. This gives the searcher direct line of descent of his Daggett ancestry. His mother's family, if an Island one, is to be followed in the same way—by turning to the number in brackets following her name and turning to that number in the family genealogy, which is to be found in the alphabetical arrangement of the contents. These directions can be followed indefinitely with each grandparent until the whole plan of his ancestry is developed in like manner.
